

Photograph by Lewis Hine (Sept. 27, 1910):

Caption: Eight-year-old, Jennie Camillo, lives in West Maniunk, Pa. (near Philadelphia). For this summer she has picked cranberries. This summer is at Theodore Budd's Bog at Turkeytown, near Pemberton, N.J. This is the fourth week of school in Philadelphia and these people will stay here two weeks more. Her look of distress was caused by her father's impatience [?] over her stopping in her tramp to be "bushelman" at our photographer's request. Witness, E.F. Brown, Sept. 27, 1910. Location: Pemberton, New Jersey

Library of Congress, Prints and Photographs Collection, <http://hdl.loc.gov/loc.pnp/nclc.05286>
Source: <http://teachinghistory.org/best-practices/teaching-in-action/23724>

